

"There is nothing so powerful as truth"
DANIEL WEBSTER

THE UNION LEADER

140th Year © 2003, Union Leader Corp. Manchester, New Hampshire • Friday, February 7, 2003 ☆ 52 Pa

DIRTY TRICKS

Federal officials erted by police alleged GOP
hone jamming

JOHN DISTASO
Political Reporter

Fanchester police have alerted U.S. Justice Department to an election Day operation allegedly created by a Republican tele-marketing dealer that jammed out-the-vote phone banks operated by the city's firefighters on and the state Democratic Party.

Fred Roach of the city's de-ive bureau said this week Ida-based telemarketing firm Willoerprises was hired by GOP keplace of Alexandria, Va., to ke repeated hang-up calls to a up of New Hampshire phone ks on Nov. 6.

tion and Democratic officials l the phone jam, broken by izon after two hours, lasted 3 enough to hurt their efforts each people who needed rides he polls. Union president Wil- 2 Clayton said many intended

TELEPHONES, Page A10

Bode Miller smiles on the podium after winning the Men's Alpine Ski Championships in St. Moritz, Switzerland, yesterday.

Miller skis to go

Franconia native takes combined at WC

By PAULA TRACY
Union Leader Staff

FRANCONIA — Despite the fact his name is known by Europeans and ski race enthusiasts everywhere, Bode Miller said his quiet home town here in the White Mountains will not be changed by his international ski success.

(See full coverage in Sports Page D1)

"Franconia is pretty much i-ervous and that is pretty m-why I am who I am," Miller s-esterday in a conference c-fter winning the gold medal the combined at the world cha-pionships in St. Moritz, Switz-

Arthur Ferretti, 96, is dead

Pr
'Th is for

■ Bush se- his comm- weapons.
WASHINGTON

esident should stop downplaying this threat, start paying more attention to it and immediately engage the North Koreans in direct talks."

ELEPHONES

(Continued From Page A1)

acts with potential riders, especially seniors, were not made,
"I know a lot of them got it out" of voting.

Roach said a state harassment law may have been violated. The law's multi-state nature prompted him to contact authorities about possible federal violations, said.

State Republican Chairman Mike Miller said yesterday the state committee hired GOP Marketplace, but not to jam opposition phone lines, something she said she knew nothing about.

Miller, elected chairman two weeks ago, said party executive director Chuck McGee told her it, "at the very end of the election cycle, the state party contacted with GOP Marketplace in the thought that the party might use telemarketing to do a get-out-the-vote calling. But calls were never made, and the state party is currently working on getting a refund."

She noted the hiring occurred before my time" as party chairman. Miller worked with the GOP in the fall to direct the publicans' own get-out-the-vote effort in the final hours of the campaign.

GOP Marketplace calls itself the first Internet-based political campaign.

MILLER

(Continued From Page A1)

Miller, 25, grew up in Easton, outside of this small town in a village of fewer than a thousand residents and skied at state-owned Cannon Mountain where his mother, Jo, worked. His father, Woody, is an area social clerk and the family runs Tam-mick Tennis Camp in the summer.

the North Koreans through a variety of channels," he said.

The two countries continue to exchange harsh words. On Wednesday, Defense Secretary

B2B (business-to-business). We link campaigns and committees with telephone vendors online."

The Republican State Committee paid GOP Marketplace $15-$60 on Nov. 1. A lawyer for GOP Marketplace would neither confirm nor deny the firm hired Milo Enterprises.

State Democratic Chairman Kathleen Sullivan said, "It breaks my heart that anyone in this country would engage in criminal activity to try to prevent seniors from voting and to interfere with a free election."

City firefighters head Clayton said union volunteers noticed they could not make or receive calls at about 7:30 a.m. on Election Day. After an hour, he said, the problem was reported to police.

Lt. Roach said Verizon was contacted, freed the phone lines and identified the caller as Milo Enterprises.

He said Milo officials, contacted last month, "were very cooperative. They said they were a telemarketing firm for hire and had been paid in advance (by GOP Marketplace, Roach said,) to repeatedly call a variety of phone numbers in New Hampshire on November 5."

Roach said Milo officials told which are held in odd-numbered years, match up the best skiers in the world for almost two weeks of competition.

Friends and followers in the Granite State, who watched the results fed live on the Internet at about 9:30 a.m. here, said they were thrilled he was able to put together two solid runs of slalom and was able to overcome a 17th but we have to find a way to do it that does not suggest to the North Koreans that we are doing it because they have this tool, this weapon..."

him that when they arrived at work early on Nov. 5, their workers had been making the calls for about an hour. But after checking the work order, Roach said, they stopped the blocking operation, realizing it could be "a problem."

Roach said he later spoke to a vice president at GOP Marketplace and, "He was very evasive."
The Union Leader's call to GOP Marketplace President Allen Raymond was returned by company attorney John Partridge, who said Raymond "can't confirm or deny" that Milo Enterprises was hired.

Clayton said the firefighters don't ask riders their party affiliation. He noted many union members are Republicans and the state firefighters union backed Republican Craig Benson for governor.

Sullivan said she identified the party numbers blocked as those for the Democratic City Commission office, the state party's now-closed coordinated campaign office and state party field offices in Nashua, Rochester and Claremont.

Roach noted a state law making it a misdemeanor to make a telephone call "with a purpose to annoy or alarm another." Prosecuting an out-of-state entity on a misdemeanor is difficult, he said, showing in decades.

"We've been in the basement for years," he said.

Miller's uncle, Mike Kenney, who is also coach at FSC, keeps the connection between the program and Miller alive. Kenney is with Miller now. Come Feb. 15, the club will be auctioning a pair of skis Miller raced on this winter great voters. Furthermore, he said, the jam only lasted for about 10 to 20 minutes. And officials with the Kerry campaign also dismissed the story.

but he said he has contacted the U.S. Justice Department in Washington.

One federal law prohibits causing "the telephone of another repeatedly or continuously to ring, with the intent to harass any person at the called number." Roach said, "It appears (the Justice Department) may be interested in pursuing the matter."

McGee, the Republican State Committee executive director, said early yesterday he had vaguely heard of GOP Marketplace and did not hire the firm.
Later, Miller called The Union Leader to say that McGee "was mistaken," and had in fact hired it for telemarketing.

Sullivan said, "I find it fascinating that Chuck McGee's initial

BEDFORD

(Continued From Page A1)

voted down. School board members said Bedford's students could continue to attend West but a new tuition arrangement would have to be negotiated with Manchester. School board member Dan Sullivan said Bedford probably wouldn't have to pay $20,000 per student in tuition but would pay more than the other three towns if those communities approved their agreements with Manchester and Bedford didn't.

Under the plan, Bedford would be guaranteed seats at West up until it reached a population of about 1,000 students. Bedford currently has a high school population of about 807 students, according to officials.

In addition to the projected tuntion costs of about $6,700 per student, the capital costs for the project should not total more than $1,500 per student, according to school board members.
The figures are for a "worst-case" ter suburbs. Meanwhile, paper said, the Gore campratched up its own get-outvote efforts in Manchester Nashua. Gore won the primary reaction was to lie. I don't know I can believe anything now."

Roach said blocking pholines "is serious crime, regardless of whether it's a misdemeanor or a felony. Whether it be you, or a union hall, they're all guilty."

Raymond is a 33-year-old ornizer whose recent clients included Republican Nation Committee co-chair Pat Harrison and former President candidate Steve Forbes' 20 campaign committee, according to the firm's Web site. Last year he headed the Republican Leadership Conference, which spent about $150,000 advertising against conservative GOP form candidate for governor Govt Humphrey.

scenario and will likely be before the agreement is finalized, they said. Bedford currently Manchester about $6,400 per student for tuition.

In Bedford, the tuition proposal requires a simple majority approval, although some voters have questioned that aspect of the plan and say it could require at least a 60 percent vote for approval. School officials are stating by the opinion of legal counsel that only a simple majority is needed. That stance was clarified last night in response to a voter's question.

Voters still had to discuss several remaining warrant articles about 10 p.m. One of those articles included a proposed petition warrant article — Article 13 that doesn't require a high school to be built if it is approved. 1 addresses such a warrant